Your Medications, Common Side Effects & How to Manage Them:

HE1	Netupitant-Palonosetron (Akynzeo®) prevents nausea and vomiting. Common side effects can include headache, weakness, indigestion, fatigue, constipation and skin redness. Call your doctor immediately If you experience agitation, hallucinations, fever, fast heart rate, overactive reflexes,
	Dexamethasone (Decadron®) works well to help control your nausea but it may increase your blood sugar if you have diabetes, interfere with sleep, increase appetite, cause nervousness, or cause moodiness. If you have diabetes, check your blood sugars regularly and work with your family doctor to help keep blood sugars near normal. Speak with your oncology nurse or doctor to manage other side effects.
10	 Prochlorperazine is to help prevent nausea and vomiting following chemotherapy. Common side effects can include drowsiness, dry mouth, and/or constipation. If you experience any difficulty with emptying your bladder or any new muscle twitching or jerking, please stop the medication and let your oncology nurse or doctor know about this problem.

Other tips:

- Drink at least 2 litres of non-caffeinated fluids per day, unless told otherwise by your cancer care team. Staying hydrated helps to prevent nausea.
- Use the My Health Diary to track your symptoms and bring the Diary each time you visit the hospital
- Complete your symptom screening to rate your symptoms at each doctor visit
- Before you start your anti-nausea medications, inform your cancer care team of the medications you're taking including any over-the-counter drugs, herbal and naturopathic medications.

If you have questions about your medications call the Cancer Symptom Support Telephone Service: During the day: (705) 728 – 9090 ext. 79565. Evenings, weekends and holidays: 1-877-681-3057. Please visit www.rvh.on.ca for the latest hours of operation. Bring this sheet and your medications to your next chemotherapy treatment appointment.
